FASHION COMMUNICATION

Near Pera

A study in modern fashion

About the Brand

PC Era is a luxury fashion label with a modern, feminine aesthetic and a focus on versatile, statement-driven clothing. Its visual language balances refined styling with contemporary fashion, creating a strong foundation for bold and polished digital content.

My Role

I worked from the brand's existing identity to develop fresh creative treatments, exploring scale, pacing, hierarchy, and graphic accents. The process involved turning initial ideas into polished, fashion-focused pieces with a distinct character of their own.

REFINED

Clean compositions meet expressive typography and carefully curated fashion imagery, creating a polished visual system designed for digital storytelling.

Design Approach

This project became an exercise in translating fashion imagery into designed compositions rather than simply presenting it. Through shifts in scale, framing, typography, and visual rhythm, each piece was developed to feel distinct while belonging to the same creative world.
